

In the Daze of the Knight.

This is a story about a beautiful princess, a mighty knight, and a terrible dragon, or something like that. The following story is true, only your name has been changed to protect the guilty.

One day, a knight was riding down the road. There's a princess. She's calling out for help. She's saying "Help, Help! I'm being attacked by a dragon. I'm in trouble honey."

As the knight rounds the bend in the road on his horse, and the princess hears him approaching, she calls out,

"Who dat, clippity, cloppen down this road?" And the knight says. "Thats me baby. I was just sitting around the castle with nothing to do, and I said to myself, you ain't got nothing to do, just sittin around the castle. So I decided I'd go and rescue a princess.

She asked "Are you a knight?"

"Everyday," he said.

She tells him, "I'm a princess, I'm a princess honey. My name is Cleo. What's your name?"

He says, "my name is Over, Over Knight."

That's when she asked him "Would you kill a dragon for me?" He said, "Kill a dragon, damn. I've been asked to climb a mountain, swim an ocean, cross a desert. But never to kill a dragon. That depends on how big the dragon is? If he just came out of the egg, I'll kick his ass."

She tells him "It's a little dragon.., he's a little dragon, but he's got fire commin out of his nose. There's a hiss sound.., then FOOM, fire comes out.

The knight thought for a second then said, "A hiss sound.., then fire comes out. That hiss sound means it's one of those butane burning dragons. Thats probably the one that escaped from the Chow Mein company. They cook their food with dragon fire. Why don't I rescue you tonight, then kill the dragon tomorrow?"

She tells him "No you ain't either. You're going to fight a dragon for some of this."

So the knight pulls his sword, and he's banging on the bushes trying to find the dragon. The princess is helping him. She's saying, "Dragon, dragon, bring your ass out here right now. Told ya, you were going to get in trouble, just shootin that fire on people."

After five minutes the knight said "Baby he's gone. He probably went back to the butane company to refill his tanks. This is our chance to get away."

The princess says, "I'm still afraid.., I'm still afraid. Can you stay with me, Over Knight?"

He said "I'm off all day tomorrow too."