MISCELLANEOUS IDEAS TO MAKE EVENTS EASIER

ALWAYS CARRY IDENTIFICATION, A LIST OF EMERGENCY CONTACTS, EMERGENCY MEDICAL INFORMATION, AND ANY PRESCRIPTION
MEDICATIONS YOU ARE TAKING. THIS IS SOMETHING EVERYONE SHOULD ALWAYS DO, EVENTS OR NOT!

Plan for unexpected emergencies... a first aid kit and minimal car repair kit with jumper cables really are essentials.

A mini air pump is very handy, and can inflate air mattresses.

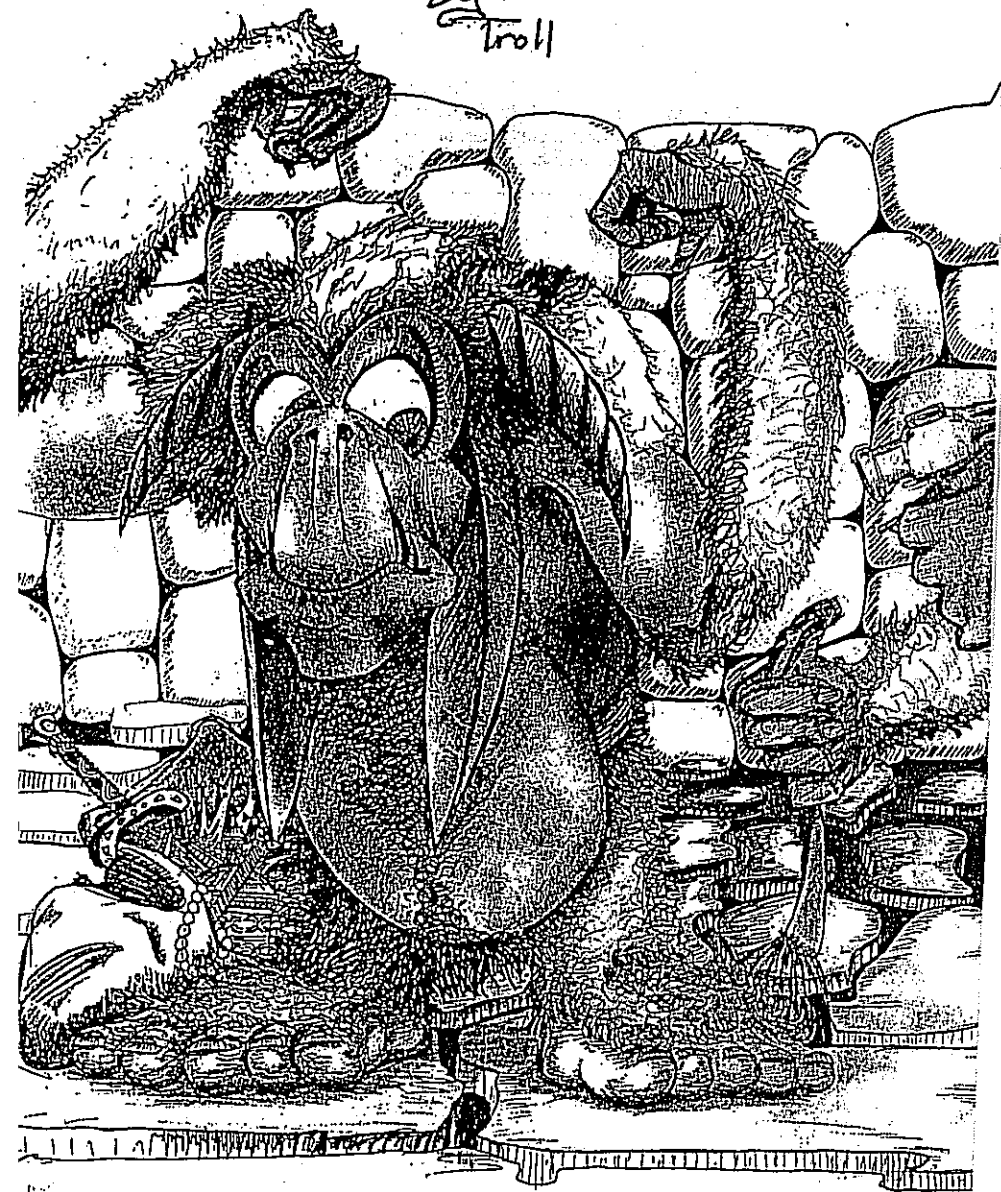

Always carry a phone card, prepaid phone credits, or memorize one of the collect-but-cheaper numbers.

List the event sites you frequently go to, and write down the directions to each one. Keep that list in your atlas. Keep your atlas in your car.

When deciding what to take, think through each day of the event chronologically and write down what you will need for everything you plan to do.

If you can't shower (at primitive sites, etc.) you can clean up effectively with baby wipes or handy wipes.

Titania

Drifting through the clouds
The mist leaving dew drops on my arms
And glitter in my hair,
Tendrils of leaves reach out
To caress my face and thighs
The vine is rough and cold in my hands,
I pull myself up and over the edge

To view an open glade
At the end of a trail
And trees filling the air with oak and pine
And the scent of flowers
From a crystal pond
Which ripples as I dive in.

A bed of moss so soft and sweet
Cradles my glistening body.
Hair curls along his brow,
All dark and wavy smooth from the water,
A curtain of flowers falls behind his wake,
As he steps into my bower, I smile up at him
And fingertips touch fingertips
While the sunshine plays with the leaves.

Storms of Emotion

Clash

Pressure building
Gray clouds yearning
Moisture in the air,
Thunder rolling in the distance
Yet I cannot tell from where.

Wet.
Drop by drop the sky is falling
Crying out in pain.
Anger clashes in bright flashes,
Destruction unharnessed upon the land.

Fury, Fury, feel the Fury
Fury of the storm.
When will come the clouds release?
When will the tears stop falling down?
When will friendship enter in this whirling disaster,
Thunderstorm.
Release the anger
Release the tears

Let the rain come falling down.
Sooth yet sooth to calm the pain.
Away the lightning of misunderstanding
The thunder lose its selfish noise
Stop the flood of relentless anger
And let the rain come falling down
The calming rain to sooth the pain.

Pressure building
Gray clouds yearning
Moisture in the air,
Thunder rolling in the distance
Yet I cannot tell from where.

Fury, Can you feel the wrath
The darkness of the Storm?
When will people stop the rage
When will people understand
That all this destruction tears the land
Makes the tears come falling down,
As the thunder and the lightning clash
For all the pain and unending sorrow
That would end upon the morrow
If the rain could just fall and fall.
Hear the raindrops fall and fall.

I Wanna Be A Burning Lander

by: Archangel Dakota Squecky Breaks Jingly Butt

I wanna be a Burning Lander
Talk shit and lots of slander
We don't fight cause it too-hot and when we do we blow off shots

I warina be a Burning Lander
Talk some shit and lots of slander
We don't fight cause it's too hot instead we sit and smoke our pot
